Title: CEDE the Past: The Art of Organizational Change

Abstract: How do we implement change? In life and in the workplace change impacts each of us, every day, but how do we manage change on an organizational level? If we want to change anything within an organization we need to understand the basic foundations for change before we can begin to implement any ideas that we may have. In this video we will look at some of the basic methods and steps for implementing change. I will also be comparing some of these methods for change with Sun Tzu's strategies for warfare and how they might be adapted to your own steps towards organizational change.
